4. Loan Limits and LTV Ratio

Home Loan amounts are determined by property value, applicant income, and Loan-to-Value (LTV) ratio policy:

Loan Limit by Property Value
Maximum loan amount	Up to INR 5,00,00,000 (5 crore)

LTV ratio — below ₹30L	Up to 90% of property value
LTV ratio — ₹30L–₹75L	Up to 80% of property value
LTV ratio — above ₹75L	Up to 75% of property value
EMI to income ratio	EMI must not exceed 50% of net monthly income (FOIR ≤ 50%)

5. Tenure

- Minimum tenure: 5 years (60 months)
- Maximum tenure: 30 years (360 months) — subject to borrower's age not exceeding 65 at maturity
- Longer tenures reduce EMI but increase total interest paid

6. Interest Rates

Interest rates are linked to the bank's benchmark lending rate and reviewed quarterly:

- Floating rate: 8.5% – 11.5% per annum (linked to MCLR / Repo Rate)
- Fixed rate: Available for first 3 years at a premium of 0.5% above floating rate
- Women applicants: 0.05% concession on interest rate

7. EMI to Income Ratio Policy

The FOIR (Fixed Obligation to Income Ratio) must not exceed 50% of the borrower's net monthly income. Existing loan EMIs, credit card obligations, and the proposed home loan EMI are all included in this calculation:

EXAMPLE	Net monthly income: ₹60,000. Existing obligations: ₹10,000. Maximum permissible EMI for home loan = $(₹60,000 \times 50\%) - ₹10,000 = ₹20,000$. Based on EMI capacity and tenure, the eligible loan amount is calculated accordingly.

8. LTV Ratio Explained

The Loan-to-Value ratio caps how much of the property's market value can be financed. For a property valued at ₹40,00,000:

- Maximum LTV = 80% → Maximum loan = ₹32,00,000
- Remaining 20% (₹8,00,000) must be funded by the borrower as a down payment
- LTV is calculated on the lower of market value or registration value

9. NRI Home Loan — Special Conditions

Non-Resident Indians (NRIs) may apply for home loans subject to the following additional conditions:

- Loan amount: Up to ₹2 crore (lower cap than resident applications)
- Repayment: EMIs must be paid from NRE/NRO account in India
- Disbursement: Only in Indian rupees to the seller's account in India
- Power of Attorney: Mandatory if the NRI is unable to be physically present for documentation

10. Moratorium Period

- Moratorium periods are NOT applicable to standard Home Loans
- EMI repayment begins from the month following loan disbursement
- For under-construction properties, Pre-EMI (interest only) may be paid during construction period, with full EMI commencing on possession
- COVID and hardship deferrals are subject to RBI and bank policy at the time of request
